

Where You Live Matters

is an online resource for anyone who needs information about senior living options. You'll find unbiased, research-based information that answers your questions, gives you food for thought, and puts practical tools in your hands that can help you make the decision that's right for you and your family.

A SENIOR LIVING RESOURCE

WhereYouLiveMatters.org

Where You Live Matters is a consumer education program created by the American Senior Housing Association, a nonprofit organization supporting the senior housing industry.

Will Medicare pay for long-term care?

What's senior living like?

What if we can't take care of the house?

How do I talk to my parents about this?

Can I afford a senior living community?

Where do you start?

Mom seems so lonely.

I'm worried about my husband needing more care.

What is assisted living?

Should my parents move in with me?

A SENIOR LIVING RESOURCE

Topics Include

- Levels of Care Defined
- Is Living in a House the Best Choice?
- Talking with Parents About the Future
- The Importance of Senior Wellness
- Paying for Senior Care
- Starting the Senior Living Search
- The Cost of Caring for a Loved One

Tools

- Financial Considerations
- Testimonials & Expert Videos
- Community Visit Checklists
- Infographics
- Paying for Senior Care
- Links to Senior Living Resources
- Home Safety Checklist
- Glossary of Senior Living Terms

No sales pitch, no pressure.

Just impartial information to help you understand your options so you can make smart choices about the future.

Visit WhereYouLiveMatters.org.

You can also like us on Facebook -
Facebook.com/WhereYouLiveMatters

